Mr. DIX'S LECTURE ON THE ANDES LAST EVE-NING -It is seldom that those whose privilege it is to sojourn in strange lands have either the disposition or the capacity to place before the minds of others in such vivid colors, not only the impressions made upon their own minds, but almost the very scenes themselves, as did this gentleman, whose lecture last evening held entranced and spell-bound an audience composed of the first intelligence of our

The lecture, prepared by a clear, and, we think, perfectly just view of the Spanish character, as manifested in the enterprise of her early voyagers and her colonial policy, carried the listener upon a tide of poetry and sentiment in perfect unison with the subject matter. Sublime without harshness, beautiful without feebleness, the lecture was through cut what such a lecture should be-a mirror in which were reflected the scenes, the people, the incidents of travel, and the home life, all, in fact, which is worth preserving or worthy of remark.

Mr. Dix will on Thursday next give a second lecture on the same subject, in which he will tell of his own experiences and journeys during his residence as attache to the embassy in South America, and we earnestly advise all who wish to have a vivid conception of the character of the country and people of our twin sister to attend.

EXPOSITORY THOUGHTS ON THE GOSPELS, FOR FAMILY AND PRIVATE USE, WITH THE TEXT COM-PLETE. By Rev. J. C. Ryle, B. A., 12 mo., pp. 370. New York: Rob't Carter & Brothers .- This is the second volume of Expository Thoughts on the Gospels, embracing the Gospel by St. Mark, and is well adapted for reading in the family, being written not so much for the scholar as for the private Christian. learned or unlearned.

Few ministers of the Church of England are accomplishing such a work as this author. There is such an evangelical spirit pervading his writings that it is not difficulty to discover to which branch of that Church he belongs. The works which have already issued from the pen of Mr. Ryle and which have been republished by the Carters, of New York, are the following: "Living or Dead," "Wheat or Chaff," "Startling Questions," "Rich and Poor," "Priest, Paritan, and Preacher," and "Expository Thoughts on Matthew." We recommend these Expository Thoughts to all who wish to understand the Gospels of our Lord Jesus Christ.

This book, with those enumerated above, can be had at A. Davidson's, on Third street, near Market.

The U. S. Marshal of New York attempted to arrest Wm. M. Connelly last week in that city. He was engaged in a newspaper office. The Marshal went to the office and sent to an upper room for Connelly. When he came down he was arrested, and expressed his willingness to accompany the officer, but requested permission to return to his room and arrange his papers. This request was granted and Connelly made his escape through another entrance. Connelly is indicted at Cincinnati for harboring the slaves of Col. Withers, of this State, in city in Jnne last.

We warn the public against a certain character at Seymour who calls himself C C. W. Sandey. He has several aliases. He passes himself for an agent o the People's Express Company. He ingratiates himself to strangers, and if an opportunity presents itself relieves them of their pocketbooks and purses. He is very fond of spirits, and generally loiters about groceries and confectioneries.

The Legislature of Texas is an industrious body. They meet at 4 o'clock in the morning, and have four sessions daily-one before breakfast, a second before dinner, a third before supper, and a fourth before bed time. If some Legislatures were to meet as early as that of Texas, many of their members would get no sleep at all.

The Wheeling Times has information from Richmond that a bill has been reported in the Legislature which requires the Virginia banks to resume specie payments on the 1st of April next.

BY JAMES LOMBARD.

"The eyes of a fool are in the ends of the earth." Fain would we cast aside the impervious screen That hides the future from our peering sight

And la one wreath entwine its blossoms bright: While all that decks the fair surrounding scenc Is looked upon with cold, regardless mien. We spend our days in looking for the light. To be revealed from some for distant height,

Heedless that now, all redefent of sheen, Commends its claims to our unwearied care, And that attending to its duties well

Would for each coming exigence prepare, And make the passing hours of pleasure tell. The good time now—we may enjoy lt, while
That in the distance dim may wreathe for us no smile?

No earthly friend can fill a mother's place, When that dear one is with us bere no more; No smlles so sweet, so loving to the core As those which heamed upon that faithful face.

Reflecting every meck, angelle grace; No words so kind, so potent to restore Joy to the soul where sadness ruled before, As hers, who held us in her warm embrace. But when the vestnre visible to sight Has worn away, to set the spirit free,

Then we behold those looks of love and light

In fadeless lines impressed on memory, And feel that but one mother e'er is given To guard us here below, or guide the way to heaven!

The Kansas Resolutions and Mr. Johnson's Preamble-The Lumbermen's and Builders' Planing Company— The Apportionment Bill—Portland Savings Institu-tion—The Theobold Appropriation Bill—Ashland Bank Bill—The Geological Survery Appropriation, &c.

FRANKFORT, Feb. 16, 1858.

Frankfort, Feb. 16, 1858.

The House yesterday had under consideration the resolutions of Mr. Machen, affered some time ago, in telation to the admission of Konsa's, together with the substitute offered by Mr. Huston, all of which I have farmished you in former letters. During the pendency of the question, Mr. Johnson, of Favette, had read the following as a preamble:

Whereas, The newspapers inform us that the Lecompton constitution, at the election on the 21st of December. 1857, received over eixthousand votes in its favor of which over three thousand were furnished by those gallant little preciocts. Oxford, Kickapoo, and Shawnee; and we are informed from the same source that at the election on the 4th of Jannary, 1854, upwards of ten thousand vide and traitorous Abolitionists (see President Ruchanan's message) had the insolent assurance to cast their votes against said constitution, thereby conclusively proving that the majority of the people of Kansas are wholly unfit for self-government, and shootd have that constitution cranmed down their iraltorous throats, and if they do not swallow it with a good grace, and without a single wry face, we should smash this Union into ten thousand fragments; and whereast also appears from the same ource of information that although those Abolitionista, traitors, &c., cast more votes for their candidates tor State and legislative officers, than were cast by the men of 'law and order,' even counting lufull the magnificent returns from Oxford, Kickapoo, and Shawnee, yet we have too much confidence in the particular tool the second that the structure indees of election, and sive cert feates to the law shiling and orderly candidates mon our side of the question to doubt one moment that he will refuse the traitors their certificates of election, and give cert feates to the law shiling and orderly candidates mon our side of the question to doubt one moment that he will refuse the traitor their certificates of election, and give cert feates to the law shiling and orderly candidat perpetual.

Upon the question of Mr. Huston's substitute, it was lost by a strict party vote, and Mr. Machen's resolutions prevailed by a like vote.

A bill from the S-nate to incorporate the Lumbermen's and Builders' Planing Mill Company of Lonisvil'e produced some discussion, in which Messrs. Dellaven, Johnson, Huston, and Pennebaker took part. A substitute for the first section of the bill, offered by Capt. Bennebaker, was then adopted, when the bill passed. The substitute confines the corporation strictly to the planing mill busines, and gives no more corporate anthority than could have been obtained under the general law from the have been obtained under the general law from the

Yesterday evening the Senate refused to reconsider the bill to regulate the brokers of the Commonwealth. At 4 o'clock, P. M., the special o'der of the day was the bill concerning the Southern Bank of Kentucky. After a number of amendments were offered and rejected, the bill passed by a vote

[The bill will be found in the proceedings of the Legislature published in another column.]

In the Senate to-day the House apportionment bill was taken np and immediately laid on the table. S., I suppose, we will have no more of the matter this winter. The law pre-cribes that at this session an apportionment bill shall be passed. We have exceeded the requirements of the law and passed a country not in the Senate and one in the Means of ceeded the requirements of the law and passed a couple—one in the Senate and one in the Honse of Representatives—neither of which, however, can ever become a law.

The Sena'e passed this morning an act incorporating the Portland Savings Institution by a vote of 22 to 13, reserving the right to the Legislature to repeal, alter, or amend at pleasnre. The Senate also passed the Theobald appropriation bill, which passed the House several days ago, with but two dissenting voices—Messrs. Silvertooth and Mathewson voting against it. The passage of this bill puts dissenting voices.—Messrs. Silvertooth and Mathewson voting against it. The passage of this bill puts into the pockets of a worthy man a portion only of what has been justly dua him by the State for a number of years, and which has been unjustly kept from him. Mr. T. has been asserting his rights for a long time, and at last they have been acknowledged. "Fruth is emnipotent ard public justice certain."

A large portion of the time of the Honse to-day was occupied in the discussion of the Bank of Ash. land bill. After numerous speeches, suggestions, &c, the bill was smended so as to permit the bank to issue only one dollar for every one dollar of stock, thus putting her upon an equality with the other banks, and then the bill in its amended form was passed.

The House all o have under discussion, as I am writing, the Senate bill appropriating thir y thousand dollars for the next two years—fifteen thousand per annum—for the prosecution of the State geological survey. Mr. Mechen has just offered an amendment proposing to strike out thirty thousand, and insert twenty thousand, an amendment which I sincerely trust will be rejected, as the appropriation made by the Senate is small enough in all conscience, if we consider the advantages which have resulted and will result from the survey. Your correspondent is will result from the survey. Your correspondent is will result from the survey. Tour correspondent is well acquainted with those portions of the State where the survey has been thoroughly made, and if he had space to state some incontrovertible facts which, to one not posted on the subject, would appear incredible in regard to the increased value of pear incredible, in regard to the increased value of lands, and the enhanced worth of property generally, he feels satisfied that there would be almost an unanimous expression of opinion of all parties in favor of even a larger appropriation. I trust in my letter of to-morrow to be able to say to you that the House has passed the bill as it came from the Senate As this is the last day but one of the present se sion, quite a number of the "hangers-on" about the sion, quite a mulliper of the "hangers-on about the capital are dropping off, and even quite a number of members are packing np, settling bills, shaking hands, and preparing to be off at a moment's warning. It is pretty well understood that the entire time of the Legislature to-morrow is to be taken up with enrolling, engrossing, and winding up the bus-iness of the session. All that is at all of interest will transpire in all probability this evening. So do not be surprised if, after the arrival of the train, to-morrow evening, yon should meet in your comforta-ble sanctum— ESTELLE.

IMPORTANT FROM KANSAS.

nce of the Cincinnati Gazette LAWRENCE, K. T., Feb. 9, 1858.

Gov. Denver sent in an elaborate message last night, vetoing the act locating the Territorial seat of government at Minneola. (This had been previously agreed on as a part of the programme.)

The message urges that the capital has been permanently located at Lecompton; that this was done in a legal manner; that Congress having appropriated and epent increy for the erection of public builtings there, this location assumes the form of a contract between the Congress and the Legislature. contract between the Congress and the Legislature; and that the Legislature has exhausted its power in the case. This Legislature, the general government, and Gov. Denver have all recognized this permanent location at Lecompton.

As had been expected, the act was immediately put through over the veto.

As had been expected, the act was immediately put through over the veto.

In the House of Representatives, last night, Mr. Hanna introduced an act which, I think, may justly be termed radical.

The preamble sets forth that neither the Lecompton convention nor constitution have any just authority, or shadow of anthority, from the people of

ton convention nor constitution have any just authority, or shadow of anthority, from the people of Kansas.

It then goes on to provide, that for the "Dictator" to declare, by official proclamation, the Lecompton constitution to be the constitution of the State of Kansas, or call upon or commission any persons to act as officers under it; or for any Senator, Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary, Anditor, or Treasurer of State, or member of the Legislature to attempt in any way to give effect to that constitutional government, or to exercise authority under it, shall be a felony, punishable with death.

The bill was drawn up by Judge Conway.

The act brought ont a good many violent speeches. The President's message had just been received, and there was a general feeling of exasperation among the Free State men. The Speaker of the House (Mr. Deitzler) said if news of the passage of the Lecompton constitution should arrive here before the adjournment of this body, he didn't know but he should leave the chair, and move the appointment of a committee to provide for hanging the President.

Many members declared their readiness, if the Lecompton Constitution should pass, to shoulder their muskets and fight any body, or any power, that should attempt to give vitality to it. If it came to that, they were ready to resist the Federal Government to the bitter end! I never heard as many revolutionary speeches made in any Lawrence or Topeka Convention. It was agreed, nearly unanimously, that the passage of the act would be an appropriate answer to the President's message. The bill passed the Ilonse by a vote of 35 to 3. Its passage was followed by tremendous appliause.

The Constitutional Convention bill finally passed both the House and Council yesterday, and only awaits the Governor's approval to become a law. If he does not sign it it will to be passed over his head. The point agreed upon for the Convention to meet at is the new capital of Minneolo. The Convention will meet their the first day of its session, but will undoubtedly adjourn from there to Lawrence or

Topeka.

The election of delegates takes place on the 4th Tuesday of March. The Convention meets early in April. As I have already written you, the number of delegates is one hundre!. It is said that the Governor will approve the bill; but I don't believe he will.

BENI VOLENT INSTITUTIONS OF KENTUCKY .- The benevolent institutions of this State, which are supported by appropriations from the public treasury, are very properly required by law, in addition to their biennial reports to the Legislature, to report to the Auditor of Public Accounts the original bills for all labor, materials, supplies, &c., paid for out of the funds of said institutions respectively. From the following response of the Auditor to a resolution of the Senate it will be seen that three of the State institutions have complied with the law

Auditor's Office, Frankfort, Kr., } February 12, 1828.

Hon. Jno. Q. A. King, Speaker of Senate: Sin: In obedience to a resolution of the Sera'e, just received, I answer that the Eastern Lunation Asylum, Western Lunatic Asylum, and Billud Asylum have complied with the 3d section of the act referred to, viz: "An act for the benefit of the Western Lunatic Asylum, approved 10th March, 1856," and that the same have been reported to the Legislature; and that the Deaf and Damb Asylum and Cumberland Hospital have not reported.

Very respectfully,

The Serate on receiving the foregoing response.

The Senate, on receiving the foregoing response of the Auditor, instructed that officer to ascertain by correspondence with the officers of the delinquent institutions, why they have not sent up their original bill; and made settlement of their expenditures with the Auditor according to law.

ARKANSAS STATE LINE -We learn from the Fort Smith Times that a dispute has sprung up between Mr. A. H. Jones, United States Surveyor, and Capt. Williams, Commissioner of the State of Arkansas, on the one part, and Gov. Walker, of the Choctaw Nation, on the other, relative to running the eastern boundary line of the Choctaws, or the boundary line between Arkansas and the Choctaw tribe of Indians. Mr. Jones commenced the survey from old Fort Smith, taking a due south course, which threw the line, in running about eight miles, some little distance into the State, causing considerable excitement among the citizens of the county. The Times further says:

The Times further says:

Itappears to us, from our understanding of the treaty of 1955, that the Choctaws have the United States in rather a light place. The treaty, article 1, says: "The following shall constitute and remain the boundary of the Choctaw and Chickasaw country, viz: Beginning at a point on the Arkansas river, cae hundred paces east of old Fort Smith, where the western boundary line of the State of Arkansas crosses the said river, and running thence due south to Red river,? &c.

The State line was established, as it is now marked, by the act of Congress which admitted Arkansas into the Union, in 1806; and, of course, that line cannot be disturbed. But, as far as the line was run, previous to receiving the tast instructions, it had the effect of fixing it in the minds of the Choctaws that the line is incorrect, and that they are entitled to a large slip off the State of Arkansas; and the reading of the treaty would convince any disinterested individual that the Choctaws are right, and that the Government has but one way of getting out of the difficulty—pay out.

The United States Department of Indian Affairs

The United States Department of Indian Affairs sent a special agent with instructions which charged the whole matter, by directing the surveyors to confine their labors to distinctly defining the o'd line, in order to avoid any interference with "vested rights," The arrangement proved more acciptable to the citizens of Arkansas living on the disputed ground than to the Choctaws, whose commissioner. T. M. Kinney, withdrew. In his communication to the Choctaw Governor, Sandy Walker, the commissioner, says:

sioner, says:

It was well known to the Choctaw people, at the time the line was originally run, that an error was committed by which the Choctaws, as that the stood, were deprived of a portion of their territory. * * Regarding, therefore, the running of the old line as a palpable violation of the letter and spirit of the treaty. I protest against the whole proceeding as a Choctaw, and I hereby resign my appointment as Commissioner to witness it.

The latest intelligence from Nicaragua is that the treaty negotiated between Mr. Yrisarri and our Government had been ratified, and also that the treaty between Costa Rica and Nicaragua had been rejected by the first named republic. These events would, it was thought, lead to the renewal of hostilities. There were great rejoicings in Granada on the receipt of the news of the capture of General Waiker by the United States naval forces.

WILLIS ON HOOPS -In a recent Idlewiid letter ia the Heme Journal, the writer, who is reckoned by many an authoritative arbiter elegantiarum in respect to dress, makes fun of females who trundle huge hoops in carriages and in the streets, and concludes an amusing essay with the following picture of his own situation while swamped under a petticoat-or rather under a couple-during a stage ride

And it was a curions omnibns experience, for my rustic nerves, to be two-thirds hidden under a couple of petitioeats as I was in the "Blue Line"—the skirts (which met across my lap) leaving my head and chest visible, it is true, but making the remainder embarrassingly fabulous. As I was entirely a stranger to both ladies, it was queer to be wondering (as I found irresistible on lesing sight of my on knees) which of the two petticoats would walk away with me, at parting.

A new volume of poor Edgar A. Poe's tales have been translated in Paris, and we quote a criticism on them from the Journal des Debats:

Easin on them from the sournar des Debats:

Kagar Poe is a truly American production. Nowhere can we find a more complete union of the faults which, with some superior qualities, characterize the American physiognomy. These faults are a love of immediate effect, a disdain of all moral conclusion, an impertinence of the individuality, something violent, fantastic, and coarse; precision in figure, disorder in ideas, the love of adventure without any noble aspirations of the heart, love of the supernatural without poetical enthusiasm.

A Sucramento Fancy Rogne.—The Sacramento Be contains the particulars of the defalcution of Richard II. Stanley. It appears that Stanley is an old resident of Sacramento, and for seven years has been distinguished for the richness and taste of his dress. His profession was that of a lawyer, but he very rarely practised in the courts, pacturing to act as searcher of titles, conveyancer, totary public, and fiduciary agent of his clients. In these capacities he has done a large business, everybody having great confidence in his honesty. Of late years his principal clients have been frail women, of whose legal matters he seems to have had well night the monopoly in Sacramento. Upon this class the loss by his roguery principally falls. His defalcation is $55,000, and he has left for parts unknown.

Governor Walker himself, like two other Walkers, is in for a "difficulty." He says:

Calletters from Washington mention that a caucus of Democratic Senators was held on Saturday to arrange the order of husiness of the Senate. It was agreed to diagone first of the bill providing for the increase of the army, and then to take up the bill for the admission of Minnesota bill an amendment will be made providing for the damission of Kansas under the Lecompton constitution, said constitution so amended as to drop the clause which prohibits the people.

A duel was, therefore, arranged to come off at once, Mr. De Charmont entering into the spirit of the affair as serionsly, and perhaps, as reluctantly as Mr. Winkle, of Pickwickian memory. At ten o'clock A. M., a party of friends, including the mortal antagonists, started for Schuylkill. All understood the matter as a joke, except De Charmont.

The latter gentleman, however, manifested a degree of courage to which, it may be suspected, brandy-cocktails materially contributed. At 12 M., the party arrived upon the ground. The seconds, Messrs.

E, Wright and J. H. Caterson, measured off the distance of the di tance, and placed their men in position; while the surgeon, whose name we have not obtained, prepared to open a formidable case of instruments. A dilemina arose in consequence of a mistake upon the part of the surgeon. Instead of bringing his nsual surgical case, he had brought a lot of obsterri-cal instruments, which, however they might interest the census-taker, would be of little value in extracting a ball.

A grand scene then ensued. The surgeon spread out upon the grass three pairs of uterine forceps, flanked by sundry apparatus of a highly incongruous character, while the seconds loaded the pistols,

The parties stood ten paces apart; De Charmont was pale but collected, while Sherdon was motionless, except a nervons twiching of the left eye-lid. The word was given—one, two, three, fire! Simultaneous reports followed. Sherdon staggered forward and fell heavily upon his face. Mr. Caterson rushed to him and applied a handkerchief well saturated in bullock's blood. DeC. saw handkerchief and fled like a racer toward the tree where lay his coat and hat. At this moment a supposed policeman appeared. Our respected fellow-citizen, Mr Chas. Partridge, has published a pumphlet on Spiritualism, in which he explains most of the great phenomena of history as the work of the spirits of the departed in their intercourse with the people of this world. Among the rest, the speaking of Balaam's ass is regarded as a piece of spiritual inspiration. "Modern Spiritualists," says the pamphlet, "have many parallels to this manifestation, except that dumb animals have not yet had any occasion to cry out for being smitten by Spiritualists." This is true, no doubt; but it connot be denied that modern Spiritualists have made a great many asses speak, who might as well have held their tongues. So, too, the peculiar relations between Numa Pompilius and the nymph Egeria, and the legend of Orpheus and Eurydice, are described by Mr. Partridge as pure Spiritualism. The famous visitor at whom Luther flung his inkstand was not the devil, as the great reformer supposed, but a shadowy and ethereal friend who probably had something useful or sublime to suggest, and who must have been disappointed at his uncivil reception.

Mr. Partridge gives the following account of a se-reception.

Mr. Partridge gives the following account of a series of spiritual communications imparted to a circle in this city:

cle in this city:

"Sometimes the Spirits requested Mr. Fowler to write what they dictared, and as they spoke audibly, he wrote it down. These communications were always profound, and related to metaphysical or scieutific subjects. Some of these writings covered several pages. In these communications, new words necessary to Spirithiterature were compounded. These papers were brought to our circle, and read and explained by the Spirits, who sometimes amended and elucidated their subject further in our circle, through their usual method, the raps. On the morning of December 23, 1829, 56 Spirits produced and left with our medium their autographs. Most of them were the signers of the Declaration of Anarican Independence."

To this wa with only add that the number of believers and students of Spiritualism, so far from baving diminished in this city, has, so far as we are baving diminished in this city, has, so far as we are aware, considerably increased within the three or four years since the subject received the general attention of the public.—N. Y. Tribune.

Terrific Fight of Eagles —On Saturday of last week, Mr. Jones, the proprietor of the lower steam saw-mill at Natchez, discovered two gigantic eagles saw-mill at Natchez, discovered two gigantic eagles in the air over the river engaged in furious combat. One was the Great Gray American Eagle and the other the Bald-Headed Eagle. In their tremendous struggle, they grappled and came down splashing into the river, where their fight continued as furious as ever. A steamboat passed over them, which submerged and nearly drowned them, and Mr. Jones, immediately coming on them in a skiff, was able to capture and bring ashore both of them, although they were so fierce he was obliged, when on shore, to knock both of them senseless before he could bind them with cords. He will keep both in cages for great national days, celebrations, and elections. One can be seen in a cage at Mr. Botto's store, Main'street, Natchez, near the corner of Wall street. He is too tremendously fierce to permit actual measurement, but the extent of both wings, tual measurement, but the extent of both wing when extended, from tip to tip, is estimated at from seven to eight feet.—Concordia Intel.

A CARD.

We would respectfully call the abjection of the middle to a MALINE CHEONOMETRIC placed in our window, showing the exact time. It is entirely of the World's take in Paris in competition with the less Lendon and French threnometers, and also at the World's Fair in Paris in competition with the less Lendon and French threnometers, and also at the World's Fair in New York, and in every instance has received the highest premium for mequalled workmanship and correct time-keeping.

To our watch department we have secured the services of Mr. Ed. 31 belg, of New York, Mr. H. can excense any kind of watch-work fully equal to Jurgensen, Fredsham, Adams, or any of the first London or Swis makers.

In many fine Watches that are broken carts are substituted greatly inferior to the ciphan, the customs ray ing the full press for a perfect lices of work. The Watch apparently performs well atterward for a while, but is more imperfect and less valuable than originally.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

GENTLEMEN: I noticed in your last weekly a paragraph in reference to the damage to the corn crop. It was so lite maturing, and the rains have been so incessant since that time, with continued warm weather, that no sectiol of the corn growing country has escaped. Intelligence from Missouri, Indiana, and Illinois represent it as worse in the e States than in Kentucky and Tennessee. If this be so, it is bad indeed. The Kentucky corn is so hadly damaged that it is fit for nothing but cattle. It was admitted by every one at Paris last Mouday, that it has depressed the mule market, from the fact that mules would not eat it. Now, I drop you this note to inquire, first, is the crop so universally this note to inquire, first, is the crop so universally injured as we in the country understand it to be, and second, what effect it will have upon the wheat market? By the way, almost every pen of wheat in my section of country is more or less injured—some totally ruined from the continued wet and warm weather. I have little doubt that the wheat is injured in all sections of the country. We forwarm weather. I have little doubt that the wheat is injured in all sections of the country. We farmers do our share in supporting the press, and we like to be faithfully and constantly advised of the state of the crops, the weather, &c. And I assure you we have no complaint to make against the press for not having kept us advised of the magnificence of the wheat aid corn crops. It reems to me almost every other paragraph alluded to the subject. Well, the conclusion we farmers have come to is, that it did you editors great good to tell us what fine crops we had raised, and therefore you spoke of it so often; and the reason you are now so silent in reference to their loss is out of a tender regard to our feelings; you think it bad enough for ns to lose our feelings; you think it bad enough for us to lose our crops, without being to'd of it. Be pleased to answer my inquiries, and oblige an old subscriber, who will still take the Journal in spite of the times, if he has to pay for it in damaged wheat and corn.

ENGINEER.

REMARKS,-We take great pains to obtain reliable information for the benefit of the farmers, and feel desirous that they ard not the speculators should resp the benefit of all changes in value of produce. For this purpose we lay before them facts; they must make their own deductions. From all sources we hear of great injury to the corn crop; we hear but little in regard to wheat. Immense quantities of corn are unquestionably ruined, still larger quantities greatly damaged, and consequently the great surplus will be greatly reduced. The effect must be of conrse to enhance the value of all kinds of grain should there be an export demand. At present the demand is limited to home consumption, and for this we think there will be an ample supply, notwithstanding the loss by the wet season. Farmers must watch the markets, of which we give them weekly a carefully compiled report, and be governed by that in forming their opinions. Our opinion could only be based upon such information as we give them, and, being equally liable with theirs to be erroneous, might give just ground for complaint if incorrect.

PUMPKIN SEED INJURIOUS TO DUCKS AND GEESE, I notice in your Country Gentleman of the 14th inst., an inquiry, "whether pumpkin seed will kill ducks and geese." As to their killing ducks, I have no doubt; with respect to their killing geese, I can-not speak from experience, but have very little doubt they would produce the same effect when doubt they would produce the same effect when eaten raw or unground.

In the fell of 1856, I sent from Yacht Cove, N.J., a dozen ducks of unusual large size, which had been raised along the shore of "York Bay." On my return home a short time after, I found eight of them had died, and the four others had their legs so paralized that they could not walk, although they managed to swim; and upon inquiry I found the eight had been similarly affected previous to their death. I oponed some of the dead ones, and found nothing in their intestines. &c. but a quantity of raw pump in their intestines, &c., but a quantity of raw pump kin seeds, the other food having been digested and passed off. I then took the four live ones, and stuffed and fed them for three or four days with boiled corn meal, boiled potatoes, bread, &c., keeping their stomachs filled with digestible food, and they all four recovered, and are now alive and well. sume they either digested the pumpkin seeds in the course of the three or four days, or passed them away with the other food. I now never allow my ducks or geese to eat pumpkin seeds unless they are ground or boiled and would advise others to go and do likewise.

from the original Documents. Edited by Col. Thomas II. Benton. In I5 large octavo volumes of about 750 two-column pages.

This work has now reached the fourth volume, and is giving great satisfaction among all classes. It will contain the wildom of Congress for seventy years, and will be an invaluable part of the history of the country. It is of national interest, and one of the most valuable compenditums for public and private libraries ever issued. The work real-zes a desideratum long felt, and of all others, for the political history of the Government, most wanted. Its wide range of characters, each one speaking for himself and representing his own party, and its far stretch of time, make it of the great's t value to the nation. The indexing is very coundete, so that any mane or subject decired may be found in either volume at once set, large the decired may be found in either volume at once exclusively by subscription, and the volumes are issued at interval- of from 2 to 3 months.
